

	Représentations  La revue électronique du LNSCA
	Littératures, Sociétés et Cultures Anglophones  ILCEA4 - EA 7356  Université Grenoble Alpes

	The Real in Fiction
	The Real in Fiction
ISSN 2552-1160		September 2022

The Real in Fiction

Textes réunis et publiés par / edited by Anne-Laure Tissut

Sommaire / Contents

Introduction Anne-Laure Tissut	1
The Concept of Contamination in Transuniverse Relations: Napoleon in a Fictional World Arnaud Schmitt	9
“The texture of et cetera” – synchronizing with the blurry real in 21st century artists’ novels (Sheila Heti, Ben Lerner, Kate Zambreno) Yannicke Chupin	23
Off-Centring the Real in Postcolonial Fiction Arijana Luburić-Cvijanović	41
The Dark Side of Branding: Language and the Real in Colson Whitehead’s Apex Hides the Hurt (2006) Michel Feith	65
Kind One by Laird Hunt, or a tale of a real twice lost: writing the individual and collective memory of slavery Anne-Julie Debare	87
“Missing people never make sense”: Don DeLillo’s Point Omega or, Addressing the Terroristic Real to Oneself Karim Daanoun	107
Introduction to Character by Paul Heintz Florian Beauvallet	123
Character (excerpts) Paul Heintz	126
The Realism of Speculative Fiction: Planetary Polyphony and Scale in Kim Stanley Robinson’s The Ministry for the Future Pierre-Louis Patoine	141
Reception and the Real in the Reception of 20th and 21st Century American Short Fiction: Robert Coover’s “The Babysitter” (1969), Ben Marcus’s “Cold Little Bird” (2018) and Brian Evenson’s “Born Stillborn” (2019) Maud Bougerol	159
Wargames as realistic tabletop simulations of fictional events: the case of Warhammer games Martin Buthaud	173